DAVID PRICE

23rd February 8pm AEDT

30th March 8pm AEDT

Author, speaker, consultant to business and education

David's big on getting folks to think radically differently about organisational development. He's written two best-selling books on it: The Power Of Us: How We Connect, Act & Innovate Together and before that, OPEN: How We'll Work, Live & Learn In The Future.

So, it's not surprising that he's in demand all around the world speaking, writing, teaching, advising and running workshops for Fortune 500 companies, government agencies, education institutions as well as leading not-for-profits and cooperatives. We are thrilled that David will join Future Schools this semester as our Thought Leader in Residence!

In our conversation, David will share with us how some of the world's most innovative organisations are harnessing the power of collaboration and diverse thinking to effect real change. We will explore together what we can learn from them, and as teams and individuals how we can challenge the status quo. We will debate ideas and develop strategies, and explore how we can foster our own cultures of co-creators to transform our lives and rebuild a better world for the future.

David is the Lead for Culture at the Power of Us Agency - a culture development agency that helps organisations discover, develop and sustain a culture that is people powered, innovative and meaningful.
